

Dundas & Wilson launches new look

Law firm Dundas & Wilson has today revealed a new look with a rebranded website.

The new, sharper branding further underlines the firm's commitment to professionalism and consistently excellent client service.

The exercise was undertaken solely using existing internal resources. Stationery and other collateral using the previous branding have also been phased out over the past several months to minimise waste.

Dundas & Wilson managing partner Donald Shaw said: "Our new look is cleaner and sharper and we feel is a very accurate representation of what Dundas & Wilson stands for."

"In practical terms the website is easier to navigate so it's simpler to find the information you need, and we're extremely proud of what our very talented internal marketing and design team have been able to achieve."
